Solution Architecture:

Solution architecture is a complex process – with many sub-processes – that bridges the gap between business problems and technology solutions. Its goals are to:

- The customer must feel at ease discussing their issue with the application.

- Due to the application's major software features for data collection and solution provision.

- The chatbot provides the solution, and customers' problems can be resolved.

- Specify the guidelines under which the solution is to be designed, managed, and delivered.
